Manitowoc Cranes on the Job

“We own a few 50 ton rough terrain cranes from Stephenson, and we do a lot of rental work with them. Right now we are re-renting a 60 ton rough terrain crane, an 80 ton rough terrain crane, and 14000 Manitowoc crawler crane. We handle all of the Philadelphia Electric Company and Exelon work in Philadelphia. We also work with Public Service Electric and Gas in New Jersey on substations and power plants.

“I prefer Manitowoc cranes, especially the crawler cranes. They are very operator friendly and nice to use. Grove rough terrain cranes are also very nice and versatile. Overall, I really like the Manitowoc crawler cranes.

“We use our cranes for everything. Our 14000 Manitowoc is currently on a one year rental job loading trash onto a barge. I’ve also taken it down to the Salem Nuclear Power Plant to pull screens for the cooling systems. Our cranes rarely break down, and if they do, parts and service are easy to come by. Manitowoc cranes are good for anything and everything—you name it!”

Stephenson’s Excellent Service

“I’ve been working with Stephenson for about three years. They have very responsive customer service. I’ll call our salesman, Matt Essig, and he’s always there to do anything he can to help me. If I ever needed help on a job, Stephenson will work with me to make sure I get what I need.

“The motor blew up in one of our cranes recently. It was a very large crane, so we couldn’t repair it on-site. We ended up having to flat tow the crane with a custom rigging company. When Matt heard about our dilemma, he called and offered to let us do the repair work in Stephenson’s yard, since it was closer than our shop. I truly appreciated his offering that.”
